Ring Statistics Show That

When Joe Walcott, the giant killer, was knocking out middle and heavyweights, although he did not weigh more than its pounds; many critics argued that weight and height did not figure as important qualities so long as a pugliat could hit hard and take punishment. Walcott was only five feet one and a half inches tall, yet he defeated six-footers, motably Joe Choynski, with remarkable ease. He also took the measure of Kid Carter, Billy Smith, Frank Childs, Sandy Ferguson and George Gardner, all of whom were at least a head taller than the Black Demon, as ring followers called him. Further more, Walcott defeated six-footers, motably Joe Choynski, with remarkable ease. phenomenon of the ring.

There are several fighters in the ring at the present time, who, like Walcott, are undersized, notably Tommy Burns. Sam Langford, who will probably meet Champion Johnson next May, is half an inchtaller than Burns. Young Peter Jackson is about the same size, while Tom Sharkey, who gave Jeffries the hardest battle of his career, stands five feet eight and a half inches in his scoke.

It is said that the middleweights who scale 154 pounds should be 5 feet 8 inches tall, while those who weigh 158 should measure three-quarters of an inch more. Yet Fitzsimmons, who held the middle-weight championship and was never defeated for the title, is 5 feet 11% inches. Ketchel, the present middleweight champion, neasures 5 feet 94 inches, Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, who fights at about 168, is 5 feet 10% inches, and Jack (Twin) sullivan, who got a decision over Burns once, is 5 feet 9 inches. Charley Mitchell, once England's best boxer, is 5 feet 9 inches, too. Billy Papke, former middleweight champion, is 5 feet 8% inches, and Dan Creedon, once holder of the Australian title, is a quarter of an inch shorter. Jack Dempsey, who lost the title to Fitz, was 5 feet 8 inches.

Tradition says that 145 pounders, or welterweights, should stand 5 feet 6 inches, or nearly five inches taller than Walcott, who held the title in this class for a long time. Yet it is a fact that few of the best known welterweights were as short as 5 feet 6 inches. Tommy Ryan was 5 feet 7% inches; George Dawson, 5 feet 7% inches; Tommy Tracey, 5 feet 7% inches; Mysterious Smith, 5 feet 8% inches; Matty Matthews, 5 feet 7% inches; Mike (Twin) Sullivan, the present title holder, 5 feet 10 inches; Honey Mellody, 5 feet 7 inches;

TO HELP UNEMPLOYED.

Bureau of Commerce and Labor for Means of Transportation.

Washington, Feb. 7.—An official of the bureau of information of the department of commerce and labor said today that within the last ten weeks fully 15,000 laborers could have been sent out to different parts of the country if they had had the means to travel. Thousands of applications are being received for work from the unemployed.

One suggestion that has been put forth is that some of the fund be set aside by congress for the division in transporting laborers, with the understanding that the money should be repaid.

Washington, Feb. 1.—Senator Perkins of California commented tonight upon the attacks made upon him in a telegram said to have been sent by President Roosevelt to Governor Gillett of California. Senator Perkins denied that he was an enemy seeking to thwart the progress of the navy, and declared that he would return the record in the senate in support the navy, and declared that he would rely upon his record in the senate in support of this contention. He intimated that the only basis for the president's criticism of his action and what he termed the only exception in his record in support of the navy and its needs was his vote against the four battleships program urged by the president.

Relative to the position he has taken on the Japanese question. Senator Perkins said that in the face of any treaty with a foreign power, in his opinion, the right of a state to have its own policing power was beyond question.

Senator Perkins stated his position in the matters referred to by the president in his telegram was well understood, particularly in his own state.

This announcement was based on a cablegram received yesterday by A. M. Kenefick, president of the road, from the president of the Franco-Americaine bank of France, which, with the Societe Centrale du Province bank, both located in Paris, has financed the building of the road from Wagoner to Calvin.

The committee on streets and lighting reported that it had considered the question of furnishing electric power for operating a stone cutter at the P. C. Peterson quarries. The report was accompanied by the recommendation that the city furnish fifty horsepower nine hours per day for five years at the rate of $75 per month, the company to install the power line. This arrangement would practically mean a rebate of $25 per year if the company installed the line.

Mayor Beal and Councilman Peterson submitted an interesting report on the work of the good roads convention, which they appeared as delegates from this city.
